MOSCOW, June 6.—Sweeping across Siberia on his record-breaking sky ride around the world, James Mattern, Texas aviator, landed at Omsk at 10:35 G. M. T. today (6:35 A. M., E. D. T.).

Omsk, an important town on the Trans-Siberian railway line possessing an excellent air field, is 1,450 miles east of Moscow.

Five hours and sixteen minutes ahead of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, round-the-world fliers whose record he is attempting to break, Mattern left Moscow at 6:15 P. M., E. D. T. last night.

Apparently held back by headwinds and adverse weather, Mattern took 12 hours and 20 minutes to cover the distance between Moscow and Omsk. He made only about 110 miles an hour, as against his 145-mile an hour clip across the ocean from Newfoundland to Norway.

To Take Rest
Omsk, Siberia, June 6.—James Mattern, Texas flier heading around the world with a good margin over the present record for the flight, will remain here until tomorrow, it was officially announced today. Mattern arrived here this morning from Moscow.

PA NEW OBSERVES

No new detours are noted in the district in the Detour Bulletin of the state highway department for the week ending June 8. Likewise, there are none in the district which have been removed.

The congregation of the Gospel Tabernacle, Pearson street, will be greeted by a beautifully renovated church in a couple of weeks when they return there to worship. The walls of the building have been redecorated and after these were finished the floors did not seem quite right, so all seats were removed and all floors in the church are being refinished. While the remodeling is being done the congregation is worshipping in the court house.

Up around New Wilmington, this is one of the most memorable days of the year. It is leave taking day. Commencement was held yesterday, the college term is ended, and the students are leaving for their homes. Some of them are through with college days because of graduation, and some others will probably not return, so that the day is one tinged with a certain sadness.

New Castle's army of public school children is out for the summer. School sessions ended this morning, and all are dismissed from classes until next September.

Lay Cornerstone For Post Office Shortly; Date Still Undecided

During June the cornerstone for New Castle's new post office building will be laid. Miles E. Myers, resident federal construction engineer announced today. He could not say just what date the ceremonies might occur.

The government building was over 28 per cent completed this morning, he said.

While the announcement of the cornerstone laying ceremonies lies in Mr. Myers' hands, the observance itself must be planned and carried out by responsible civic organizations.

In his May report, Resident Engineer Myers reviewed the progress (Continued On Page Two)

It is believed steps were to be taken today to enlist the interest of local groups.
Federal regulations permit public ceremonies if the contractor approves of it and providing no additional expense is incurred. Any responsible club may participate in the cornerstone program. Mayor Charles B. Mayne and city officials will likely play a major role in preparing it.

Public School Term Is Ended

Eleven Thousand Pupils Are Out Of School For Summer

PROMOTION CARDS
ARE DISTRIBUTED

Eleven thousand youngsters met up with the summer today. From Rose Avenue school to Mahoning and from Terrace avenue to McGill the reason was the same, school was out and vacation had started. Teachers and pupils alike took loose the last bond that held them to the school year of 1932-33, and for three months they will have class room worries.

There were no classes today. It was the day for promotion cards, farewells to teachers, the taking home of odds and ends that had accumulated in desks over the winter, a day for dressing up, for nobody would get a dressing down on the last day.

"I'm Promoted Mom"
In several thousand homes shortly before noon today the same scene was enacted. A little boy or a little girl came charging into the house, announced the coming of the summer, off the screen door, and tossing hats and books aside yelled, "I'm promoted Mom!"

It was moving up day for most of them. The tots who started in grade one this year got their step either to 1-A or to the second grade. Hundreds of elementary school pupils said their last goodbye to Thaddeus Stevens or West Side or Oak street and prepared to enter Junior high next year. And at the Junior high schools hundreds more prepared to move out to the Senior high school on Lincoln avenue.

COMMENCEMENT OCCURS TONIGHT

High School Will Give Out 283
Diplomas—Exercises
At Cathedral

Commencement exercises for 283 high school seniors come tonight when an impressive pageant-type program is presented before the public in the spacious Cathedral auditorium.

The pageant will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, city time. Attired in formal cap and gown, the class is to occupy a reserved section. Over 100 of the graduates will take part in the stage program, being given under the general direction of high school teachers.

The pageant itself will constitute part 1 of the program while the traditional presentation of awards, speeches by school authorities and presentation of diplomas will make up the part 2 section.

President Daniel B. Woolcock of the board of education will hand the diplomas. C. C. Green is to speak briefly.

For weeks the pageant cast has rehearsed its playlet, "Science Through the Ages," and when it is given tonight there will likely be a near-capacity audience viewing it. The mathematics and science departments of the high school are sponsoring it.

With tonight's program over, a total of 492 seniors will have been graduated from the school this year. A class of 209 left in January.

DR. WILLIAMSON
SPEAKER OF DAY

Eighty-Nine Degrees Are Conferred At Close Of Speaking Program

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 6.—World peace, harmony and of all nations, out-laws of war, these were the keynotes of commencement speeches at the seventy-ninth annual graduation exercises at Westminster college on Monday afternoon.

Eighty-nine degrees, including 85 baccalaureate degrees and four honorary degrees, were conferred during the afternoon. The exercises, held out-of-doors on the south campus for the first time in the history of the college, were inspiring in the natural setting. Members of the senior class were seated on the terrace, members of the faculty and the speakers were on the higher terrace, and guests were seated on the south campus. Loud speakers brought the addresses of the afternoon to a crowd of more than 1200.

Procession Starts
The academic procession formed at 1:30 in Old Main Memorial and moved to the Market street walks shortly before 2 o'clock. Music for the procession was provided by the college band, directed by Prof. Donald O. Cameron.

The Rev. Dr. S. E. Irvine, New Castle, pronounced the invocation. Miss Caroline Daverio, Sharon, then gave the salutatory address. Miss Daverio pleaded for world peace. Commenting on the objection of many college students to bearing arms, she said, "It is not unpatriotic to refuse to bear arms for one's country. Real patriotism is living for one's country, not dying for it." "War is not a natural phenomenon," Miss Daverio continued. "No war has ever been justified, and no war ever settled anything."

Miss Daverio's third point was, "War is in itself Unchristian."

They took Bernard Ellsworth, 32, into custody at a wrecking company plant which he partly owns.

On the premises they found a small glass jar covered with cinders and containing the money in crisp new bills.

Ellsworth, held on an open charge, said Clarence Click, one of the ring-leaders, was in the city.

Treasurer Issues Four More Licenses

There Are Still Nine Wholesale
And Eighteen Retail
To Be Taken Out

One more wholesale and three more retail beer licenses were taken out today at the office of County Treasurer William O. Pitts.

This leaves nine wholesale and eighteen retail licenses yet to be taken out. It is understood that the delay in taking out licenses on the part of some of the wholesalers has been due to the fact that satisfactory arrangements have not yet been completed with breweries.

In the case of the retailers who have not yet taken out their licenses, some have not yet completed changing and equipping their places to come within the provisions of the law. Others have been delayed in raising the money to pay for their licenses or in getting bonds.

I see where congress is starting taking themselves serious again. That means he will have to go on the radio some night and put those gentlemen right back in their place. He made the mistake of keeping 'em on the job two weeks too long. I see where the government ruled that beer couldn't be sold on an Indian reservation. Claim Slain Woman Was In Fear Of Life

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service Staff

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 6.—An indication that Mrs. Allene Thorne Lamson was in fear of her life was claimed today by Santa Clara county authorities as they delved deeper into the mysterious Stanford campus bathtub death of the beautiful young university matron, whose husband, David A. Lamson, is charged with murder.

While both defense and prosecution worked to prepare for the Stanford press executive's preliminary hearing, set for June 15 at his arraignment yesterday, Sheriff W. J. Emig said the idea that Mrs. Lamson feared a violent death was suggested to him by a statement which Lamson's mother, Mrs. A. B. Lamson, made to newspaper men during the arraignment.

Had Premonition
This contrasts with the fact that the Lamsons were known as a campus "Romeo and Juliet" couple.

Mrs. Lamson, fondling her 26-month-old granddaughter, Allene Genevieve, said:

"Allene told me twice that if anything happened to her she would depend on me to care for the baby. As her own mother is in Missouri, 'Allene first said that last night when she was ill, but she said it again the day before Memorial Day when I was leaving for the mountains with little Allene."

"If anything should happen to me," Allene said, 'You must look after the baby'."

The young Mrs. Lamson met death Memorial Day in her spacious campus home—her skull crushed—her nude body found in the bathtub—a victim of blows from her husband, the state claims, because of her chilled affections. The defense claims she was the victim of an accident or an unknown slayer.

Chicago Swelters Under Heat Wave; Headed Eastward

Many Deaths In Mid-West
Section From Sunstroke
And Intense Heat

TEMPERATURE IS STEADILY RISING

Kansas Reports Mercury
Reading Of 118; Normal
Temperature In Ohio Valley

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, June 6.—The midwest sweltered under a blistering mid-summer sun today, with the mercury soaring even higher than yesterday's record levels. Forecaster C. A. Donnel saw no relief from the torrid rays until tomorrow as he predicted the mercury may stop at nothing less than 95 here, which would be an all time record for June 6. At 10 o'clock it was 85.

Many Deaths
With one heat prostration here, reports of deaths from sunstroke were coming in from other middle west points. Three prostrations in Kansas City and many more there adjoining territory were reported with thunderstorms expected to bring slight relief later in the day. Government thermometers in Kansas registered 110 degrees in some places while street level instruments reached 118.

The Kansas wheat crop suffered extensively from the heat, ripening prematurely, while corn thrived under the beating sun.

In the southwest the mercury shot up to new levels, registering 107 in Edinok, Okla., 102 in Fort Worth, Tex., 101 in Des Moines, Iowa, and 93 in Jefferson City, Mo.

East May Escape
Through the south, east and southeast the sun was working with increasing vigor. In Washington the mercury had registered only 76, but was mounting rapidly with new levels expected before nightfall. A similar situation existed in Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pa., Pittsburgh and New York. The reading was 86 in New York at 11 a. m.

Normal temperatures were reported in Columbus, O., and Cleveland, but weather forecasters predicted that all sections except the Pacific (Continued On Page Two)

CLEAR WAY FOR EUROPEAN PEACE

France Agrees To Peace Pact

Government Authorizes Ambassador To Sign Mussolini Pact

TEN YEAR PEACE PLAN IS PROPOSED

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, June 6.—The way was cleared for a ten-year guarantee of European peace today when the French government authorized its ambassador in Rome to initial the four-power peace pact sponsored by Premier Mussolini.

The government's assent to the four-power proposal was given at a meeting of the council of ministers. A brief communiqué issued at the close of the meeting read:

"The government has authorized its ambassador in Rome to initial the text of the four-power pact."

Saved half a dozen times from collapse by 11th hour alterations in the text, the four-power pact for European peace was conceived by Premier Mussolini at the time of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's visit to Rome early this year.

The proposal was first credited to MacDonald, but the British premier soon made it clear that the pact was the work of Il Duce, framed as his contribution to the new spirit of peace and conciliation in Europe.

Under the terms of the plan so far as known, the four chief signatory nations bind themselves to preserve the peace. Germany, Italy, Great Britain and France are to be the signatories.

of his son, but the latter had gone down and his efforts were futile. Hurrying to the nearest farm house, some little distance away, he called the police and Officers U. G. Harper, Cecil Suber, Ray Showalter, William Shaner, Detective C. C. Horner and Chief of Police John F. Haven rushed to the scene with the city boat, grappling hooks and pulmotor.

Swimmers Seek Body
While the boat, grappling hooks and power lights were put into service by the police, J. R. Kirschner, an expert swimmer, dove repeatedly but was forced to give up the attempt owing to the muddy condition of the water. Jack Herbert well known swimming expert, arrived in the meantime and he too, attempted to locate the body by diving, but without success.

Discovery was made that out toward the middle of the stream there was a ledge and that the bottom of the river dropped down to between twenty or thirty feet. Finally with Jack Herbert rowing the boat and Officers Harper and Showalter using the grappling hooks the hook used by Showalter caught in the straps of the bathing suit of the drowning victim. This was approximately 9:30.

Resuscitation Efforts Futile

The body was brought to shore and Jack Herbert and J. R. Kirschner used the prone method in getting the water out. Then the pulmotor was put into action with Officers Showalter and Harper and Chief Haven taking turns in manipulating it. It was approximately an hour when efforts at resuscitation were given up. The length of time that the body was in the water made the efforts at resuscitation of no avail.

Coroner Orville Potter viewed the body and found that death was due to drowning.

Carl Alden Powell, was born in this city, September 29, 1904, the son of John F. and Stella Walker Powell and was in his twenty-ninth year. He was married on August 27, 1927 to Dorothy Vaughan.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Vaughan Powell, his father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Powell, one sister, Mrs. Minnie Halmya of West Newton, and one half sister, Dorris Powell.

Funeral services will be held Thursday, June 8, at 3 p. m. at the late residence, 908 Wilmington avenue, with Dr. H. C. Weaver and Dr. S. E. Irvine in charge. Interment will be made in Greenwood Memorial park.

No Summer School
For the next three months the schools will be silent. No summer school will be held, no classes of any kind, and until after Labor Day the school buildings will be just silent piles of brick and stone and steel. The life has gone out of them for the time.

The last day of school. A day of excitement, of anticipation, of planning and in a few cases a day of regret for the luckless kids who failed in their studies. Fortunately these were in the minority.

And to you and you and you. For the next three months the neighborhood will be alive with noise while the daylight lasts, your garden may get tramped over a bit, and the lawn may get a beating. The kids are out of school.

attained. The normal completion percentage, it was pointed out, is 31.4, but the actual progress made is over 28. Shipments of sandstone have been expedited in construction. Up to the day when Myers assumed the position, succeeding another, the building progress was 11.6 percent.

Of the total contract of $209,227.56 appropriated, the report said $42,700 has been expended in construction. Thirty-two persons were given employment in May, two in the contractor's office, one in the supervisor's office, 18 mechanics and 11 laborers. "The equipment force and progress on the project," read the monthly report, "was satisfactory. While delivery of equipment has been good, shipments of stone will not be so rapid after June 1." The post office men now are framing the building's first floor and laying the granite base trim.

Police officers had to be detailed to the Highland school by the activities of a group of boys, who were climbing the fire escapes and opening the windows. S. G. Ligo, superintendent of buildings was notified by the police.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Lawrence county's able "Flying Squadron" expert swimmers all were being notified that an organization is to be effected soon. But the unfortunate accident came too quickly, and as a group the squadron could not be notified. Members of it who heard the news did rush to help in the rescue.

It seemed that most of the Senior high fellows who finished school today came downtown to sit on the concrete railing of the East Washington street bridge. At one time space was almost at a premium.

If scientific subjects or mathematics interest you, don't fail to miss tonight's commencement program at the Cathedral. You'll find the students' pageant will repay you for what time it takes. And besides, you'll see a proud group of seniors graduate.

"Learn to Swim" will be the byword at the Y. M. C. A. after June 12th. For ten days the association is to give free instruction to non-swimming boys between 10 and 16 years of age.

the Pittsburgh-Xenia Seminary, then gave the commencement address. Speaking of the achievements of the century in science and invention, Dr. Williamson showed that these accomplishments have not seemed to have taught us anything.

Dr. Williamson gave nine reasons for the present situation and predicament of society: war, poor leadership, materialism, striving for size, mass thinking, education without character, collapse of money, and the invasion of the labor field by women.

"We are more successful in building skyscrapers than in building characters," Dr. Williamson said, "but we pay more for the one than for the other."

"We need an aristocracy of intelligence," he continued, "and can get along very well without an aristocracy of wealth or one of birth."

Commenting on economic questions, he said, "Economic questions have never been settled by economic theories, for back of every economic question is a moral and spiritual problem."

The Valedictory
Miss Sara Elizabeth Long, Bellefonte, then gave the valedictory address, pointing out that the realm of personality is the one in which very little study has been done, and much may be accomplished. Opportunities in social work and welfare work for careers of usefulness and contentment were pointed out by Miss Long.

Degrees Given
Dean Charles Freeman then presented 85 students for degrees to President R. F. Galbreath. Dr. Freeman first presented 44 candidates for the bachelor of arts degree.

As each name was read, the candidate stood up. Dr. Galbreath conferred all degrees for the A. B. Degree at one time. Twelve candidates for the bachelor of science degrees were presented next. Eighty-two candidates for the bachelor of business administration degree were then presented. Two were given the bachelor of music degree. Nine won the bachelor of science in public school music degree.

Professor John D. Lawther then presented the Tri-State conference gold medal for leadership, scholarship, and athletics to Gerald Newton, New Wilmington. Dr. Galbreath then presented silver loving cups to Samuel Morrison, Wilmer, and to Herbert Smith, New Castle, for excellence in the study of economics. Both are honor students.

Following a short address to the class by President Galbreath, the Rev. Dr. J. Ralph Neale pronounced the benediction. The college band, directed by Professor Cameron, played the recessional music.

DOUBLE LIABILITY QUESTION ARGUED

Arguments were heard at court today in the case of Charles E. Lawhead, receiver for a West Virginia bank against Earl M. Craig, executor of the late Percy Craig.

BEER WON'T MAKE YOU FAT

If you aid the digestive juices that prevent "bloat."

You can drink beer, in any reasonable quantity, and forget all fear of fat, if you give your Lippases just a little aid. Any dictionary will tell you that Lippases are the digestive juices that control the passage of fat in human body. When these juices are controlled—regulated—you lose all surplus fat, and become slim and really healthy.

That's why the new scientific Vannay treatment is doing such wonders for people who are over-weight. It encourages the proper flow of the Lippases, and actually dissolves fat before it can conform the body. Vannay is absolutely harmless. It contains no Thyroid extract, no iodine, no laxatives, no drugs of any kind that could hurt even a child. It was discovered by a great physician who has specialized in research with the leading medical institutions of Europe and America.

You don't have to starve yourself or go through painful exercises. You simply take Vannay tablets each day and continue to eat three simple meals. The fat disappears at just the places where you want to lose it. Start the treatment at once and all your fondlest dreams of health and slim loveliness should come true. Ask your druggist for Vannay and be sure that name is on the package. If you are not perfectly satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Love & Megown.

ON THE ROAD

DEPRESSION blues seem not to have taken all the wanderlust and spirit of exploration out of the make-up of the great motoring public. The auto touring season did not even get a late start this spring, although some had predicted that it would fall in 1933 to but a shadow of its former robust and round self.

Not until about Independence Day will the tide of motor touring reach its flood, but a vanguard of no mean proportions has been on the road for weeks, judging from the number of "foreign" license plates passing any given point on the trans-continental routes in the course of a day.

Perhaps these early nomads are abroad looking for greener pastures, or are industrial refugees working their way homeward, or unfortunate forced by circumstances over which they have no control to forego their usual ocean voyage this year and be content with seeing a sector of America. But to the initiated they look like the original edition of the auto tourist.

There is some evidence that the depression has affected this summer pastime to the extent that shorter week-end journeys have largely taken the place of the vacation trips into which it was customary to pack the maximum number of miles and points of interest. The week-end motor trip has never enjoyed a greater popularity.

None who can afford them should be chided for indulging in these excursions. They will produce business estimated at $2,500,000,000 and employment for thousands.

EXPERIMENTING WITH CAMPS FOR WOMEN

To the long list of experiments conducted or about to be operated at the White House add an entirely new idea. This time it is with camps for single women who are unemployed. The first camp is just opening at Bear Mountain Park, overlooking the Hudson. Three hundred will be accommodated, all selected by the state's relief agencies. The state supervises the camp, but the federal government is to supply the funds. A second in the same section is to be inaugurated in a few days. If successful, other states may designate sites and organize camps, with dependence on Washington for upkeep.

The idea is new because nothing in the way of constructive work is expected of the young woman. Men who go into the forests at $1 a day with board and lodging and clothing thrown in are required to render service. They plant trees, weed out underbrush, preserve growing timber, open roads, fight fires and so on. But at Bear Mountain Park and in additional camps of similar nature no return to the government is exacted. Routine duties of camp life will be undertaken and those who desire it may receive instruction in the gentle arts of embroidery, dressmaking, weaving and varied handicrafts by teachers who are out of employment and who may join the camps.

Briefly stated, the government is apparently going into the business of financing vocational schools under most pleasing conditions with money provided by Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Emergency Administrator. For workless girls fortunate enough to be selected the summer should afford an outing without expense to themselves. True, they will receive no pay, because they will be guests rather than employees, but life in the open under such attractive auspices should be appealing.

All this is one more phase of the administration's efforts to afford relief for the needy. The enterprise may be classified as wholly charitable. The government is absorbing paternalism quite rapidly. What next?

THE ARMY CARRIES ON

Quietly, smoothly and with an orderly efficiency characteristic of the service, the United States army has been and is now occupied with carrying out one of the greatest tasks ever imposed upon it—the conditioning and equipping of 250,000 men for the civilian conservation corps so that President Roosevelt's orders to have the forest "army" in full operation by June 7, may be carried out.

Few outside the military establishment realize what a tremendous responsibility the presidential mandate imposed upon the regular army. Enrollment, examination and equipment of the men is being carried on at the rate of 8,540 per day, higher than the daily average for the United States during the World War for both army and navy combined.

Yet it is a striking testimonial to the smooth-working efficiency of our army, that the conditioning is progressing up to schedule in every corps area will be in camp ahead of the date set by the president.

Nor does the responsibility of the army then end. It is estimated that 5,400 officers will be required for field work, alone, and practically all remaining officers on duty in continental United States will be occupied with additional work in connection with the supply and administration of the corps. Besides this, 8,000 enlisted men will be needed to round out the program.

Despite drastic curtailment in appropriations and reduction in personnel, the army has proved itself equal to the task and has not been, nor will it be, compelled to employ civilians to do any of the necessary work in getting the forest camps organized and keeping the men supplied and equipped. This includes every detail, from maintenance of health and sanitation, feeding and clothing the recruits, to supervision and direction of work programs.

The entire project was placed on the army's shoulders without warning, and as an emergency matter that had to be handled with utmost speed and precision. No provision was included for outside help, despite the magnitude of the undertaking. Perhaps the finest tribute that can be paid to our military men for the magnificent way in which they are carrying through the big job, is simply to say that the army is the only institution in the country capable of handling so many thousands of men in such short order, without confusion, without delay, without extravagant overhead expense to taxpayers, and without grumbling. It has been a striking demonstration of what rigid discipline, combined with quiet, orderly efficiency, may accomplish in an amazingly short time.—The Rockford Register-Republic.

Some of our most constructive ideas, says a philosopher, were advanced by cynics. We suppose he has in mind the two-pants suit.

The reason the post office department's deficit is not larger is because of the number of slow pays who must be dunned and dunned.

The trouble is that a man with the acquisitiveness of a Morgan can gain control of 90 per cent of a nation's wealth, but the chumps rebel and change the rules before he can annex the other 10 per cent.

CLUB DUES AND DUTIES

Are you hanging on to some of your club affiliations without doing your share toward supporting the organizations?

You make promises to meet obligations, thereby encouraging the club managers to count on you for support.

Conditions are tough enough for all kinds of clubs if all who subscribe as members pay their dues promptly.

It takes close figuring and planning to keep them going at all. The management spends many hours over ways and means of financing.

This without remuneration, of course.

But does the membership in general care forward and do their part in keeping things together?

If you belong to the class that doesn't, can't afford to maintain your membership, why don't you pay up and resign?

Don't try to ride at the expense of your friends.

Most of your club friends have to make self denials in order to do their part and if you reduced some of your unnecessary expenses you might perhaps be able to pay your dues.

Your personal popularity cannot make up the reputation you gain if you are spending your way in your club affiliations.

The story of a lawyer who asked the question of a witness: "Have you quit beating your wife?" is well known. That lawyer thought he was a smart lawyer.

Sometimes it is the witness who at least appears to be so smart.

In court in Sacramento, California, the prosecuting lawyer asked a witness to give his name. "Guess it," was the answer, at least so the prosecutor understood it.

"Try an' guess it," the prosecutor replied severely.

"Try an' guess it," the answer sounded for the second time. But before the witness could be cited for contempt of court, he explained that his name was Tryon Guessest.

ARIOSTO

Four hundred years ago unto this very day
The poet Ariosto died.
Now comes a friend of his to me to say

A word of him in pride;
A friend he never knew or never saw

Or dreamed would be.
Proving that death's unalterable law is fallacy.

Four hundred years from this small world away!
Four centuries gone!
And still his friends continue day by day

To bear him on.
They read his "Furioso" o'er and o'er

Take what it gives
And share his sparkling genius more and more

As one who lives.

I had forgotten him until his friend
Dropped in to call.

Fanciful, of course, that death
Must be the end

Of one and all.
But what is time to beauty shaped in thought

Which never ends?
Dead Ariosto, by the works he wrought

Still keeps his friends.

THIS CHAP WAS PLEASED Hon. Fred L. Rents, The News Co., New Castle, Pa.

Dear Fred: Saturday I was feeling low in body and in mind, maybe it was thinking about the responsibility resting upon the purveyors of 32 or maybe only the aftermath of a hard day.

Whatever it was it had me down, when I happened to read in your great family newspaper the statement of policy promulgated by the new Board of Park Managers.

For years I had passed up Cascade Park and yet, as I read this statement I felt here is a new deal, it is possible that a so-called amusement park could be operated for the people and not for the nickel snatchers?

Curiosity, it is said, killed a cat, but to me it was an edifying experience. For some reason or other my car steered itself towards the Park and as I went out the East Side I thought it must be Circus Day there were hundreds of citizens going the same way, on foot and in cars. Suddenly I thought there must be a riot out here. Well, I came to the Park and strange to say the Ellwood Road was safe to travel on, and, while I did not see any of the State Patrol, I felt sure they had already begun to make the No Parking signs mean something. I did see a number of Scotch cars parked on East Washington street and Frank Avenue, but I thought these people will soon see the light. As I passed the Park I saw a crowd of cars parked in the lot, the like of which I have seen but seldom before, and so I followed the crowd and went in.

The parking attendant actually seemed pleased to see me, his every action said "Yes, I'm glad you came" and the fee of ten cents seemed little enough recompense for the service rendered.

With the senior member of the firm we ambled over toward the Rainbow Terrace and about the first fellow we ran into was B. P. Biondi.

We observed with considerable consternation yesterday that the Malacosoma Americana in two of Gosh! he was glad to see me, at least I thought he was for if I had been his long lost brother he couldn't have acted any nicer. He said, "I'm sure glad you came out, we are going to have fireworks about 11 p. m. and if you are still around I think you will enjoy it. Well, I did, and there were about two or three thousand more also enjoyed it."

B. E. said: "Of course we close up at midnight Saturday, the law says so and the Mrs. want to get home so that you can put in Sunday the way you want to, and I am sure happy to do my bit along that line, but after you go to church tomorrow come out in the afternoon and hear our concert, and I said I would."

"It has been many a day since I heard anything even approaching a sacred concert at the Park on Sunday, but I'll be out."

Having a little time before the fireworks we rambled down through the Park, Fred, I can't express the feeling but it seemed to me that the attendant at the cashier's window thought we had conferred a favor on them by coming out. The big bonny lady who runs the Merry-Go-Round said "This is the finest Park crowd I have ever seen, everyone orderly and just enjoying themselves."

Billie Glenn told me he had removed the gallery fee at the Pool and now he says, "The whole family can enjoy a swim, even if it is only the youngsters that do the swimming."

We knocked a few ducks and drakes off at the shooting gallery and then for the first time in our lives went through the Old Mill. Gosh, but we had missed a lot, our minds went back 20 years to the good old days.

And Fred, the funny part about it all was this—we didn't see a policeman. We saw some awfully nice chaps with a badge and a white cap, but they seemed to be happy because we were happy. If they are policemen, I'm for them.

And then the fireworks—oh! ah! I saw childish faces gleam with a new light. I heard Ah's! drawn from the depths of their being and the tired physical and mental feeling passed off as I mingled with my fellow citizens and I had a pride in the fact that what I had seen and enjoyed was mine and my neighbors. And I seemed to see a Master hand that somehow I thought was yours, for only a big idealistic soul like yours could have conceived an ideal of usefulness such as I saw that night.

And I thought of our City Fathers who had caught that gleam of service and who had put that ideal to work, and I thought of that beautiful ideal of service expressed in the statement of the Park Board and City Warden, Maurice Markley and Frank Hill, who have dedicated themselves to the task of providing a place where the tired mother can rest with her brood, where the tired father can find tranquility, where all our citizens can find rest and recreation at whatever cost they feel that they can afford to pay. I thought of the blissful hours the children can enjoy fishing in the lake. I envisioned young men and women canoeing and boating. I envisioned the Sea Scouts charting their course to a life of service on Lake Cascade. I envisioned the old highway and I said "This well, for now all of our people can join in a common purpose. We have been given the vision, we have seen the light and we can find the way—a playground at least, devoid of commercialism, for all the people."

And I came home conscious of a new feeling in body and in spirit and on the faces of the thousands of my neighbors who were there. I saw the same. The dissension and difference that has split us apart is gone, the old associates will be revived and to those who made it possible, I am as a citizen, eternally grateful.

Sincerely,
JAMIN FELLOWS.

Four-Power Pact Expected To Check European Tension

France, Germany, Great Britain And Italy Give Impetus To World Efforts In Direction Of Co-operation In Solving Problems

Credit is given to Premier Mussolini for his efforts in support of the four-power treaty which pledges Italy, France, Germany and Great Britain, for a period of 10 years, to settle questions at issue without recourse to arms. It is believed that President Roosevelt's appeal to the nations was a factor in encouraging the acceptance of this idea. The possibility of relying on the League of Nations for any treaty revisions is held to be not a possible through this treaty. Banishment of fear is an underlying purpose.

The agreement is described by the PORT HURON TIMES-HERALD as "another of those spiritual alliances which, like the Kellogg-Briand pact, are simply designed to bring us closer together in thought and action, but without the application of any kind of force."

The JERSEY CITY JOURNAL finds "substance of the fearful talk, which was being heard all too openly in Europe and outside, of the imminence of a new European war."

The SIOUX FALLS DAILY ARGUS-LEADER feels that "for the time being the war flames in Europe have been subdued." The PROVIDENCE JOURNAL believes in order for the world to get out of the depression, "the world must form a common front against the depression."

The SAN JOSE MERCURY HERALD, although conceding that "the accord may not last," draws the conclusion that "there are strong currents in Europe running for peace."

The suggestion that the treaty be ratified by referendum is made by the PORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM, believing that it "would be a gesture that hasn't been made before."

That paper also comments: "If the four-power pact has the disposition behind it, it will be no more wars. If the war is declared by referendum there will be no more wars."

Italy isn't seeking a war. Neither is England. France is merely afraid of Germany. That is the nation already has its war burdens which can't be paid by the poorest possible hypothesis for an international proposition."

"If the Rome accord does no more than relieve the nervous political tension which has been increasing over the past year, it will have accomplished much," thinks the WALL STREET JOURNAL, with the added interpretation: "This substitution of a decade for eternity marks Mussolini as the world's most practical statesman."

That recognition may be accorded him without at all minimizing the usefulness of President Roosevelt's address to the nations, which, under all its appearance of idealistic generalization, had the practical merit of offering certain powers a graceful exit from otherwise hopelessly opposed positions.

With a tribute to "Mussolini's magnificent driving force," the BOSTON POST offers the judgment: "The world may have become used to the practice of self-interest among the nations. The blessings of peace may be so manifest that not one would wish to do away with them by any act of aggression. But, of course, all this is surmise. The new era in the great advance of the peace idea. There can be no doubt that the impetus which has resulted in this agreement came from President Roosevelt's solemn statement to the nations of the earth."

"Ten years is a long time," advises the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, while the LEXINGTON LEADER contends that "disarmament alone can fulfill the conditions of real peace and economic restoration."

Boy Scout News

SCOUTERS WIVES TO MEET
This Wednesday evening at the home of A. S. Hainsworth, West Pittsburgh Boy Scout leaders and their ladies of the north district will hold their regular monthly business and social get-together. They will meet at 8 p. m.

The closeness of the opening of Camp Phillips, the coming finals in the first aid meet at Pittsburgh on Saturday, the camping jamboree on the 16th and 17th all these will call for the attention of the men who lead the troops in this territory.

Other summer activities will also be brought up. Camp Phillips opens for the summer season on this coming Saturday afternoon and a central staff will be on hand to assist leaders who come out with their troops. There will be a director in general charge, a health and first aid leader, a waterfront director and a storekeeper, who will also drive the camp truck. These men will advise with and aid the scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters or troop committeemen who come to camp in charge of troops. Each troop will do its own cooking and will put on its own program as far as its leadership permits. While this is a new system for Lawrence County it is sweeping the country as a national plan: over four thousand four hundred Allegheny county scouts camping in the three Pittsburgh council camps in this manner last year. The cost to the scout is lower and he camps in his own troop group, thus developing the troop idea more strongly. The troop camping training course at camp during this last week end was especially for this type of camping, and men who attended it will have a good start in this method of going into camp.

But why should America adopt the methods of a creditor nation if she has no chance of collecting?

SHE ATE ALL-BRAN TWELVE YEARS WITH FINE RESULTS

Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Read this very enthusiastic letter:
"Something like eleven or twelve years ago, I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. When I started, it was called simply Kellogg's Bran, and I believe it was one of the first products of the kind on the market."

"My friends often laugh at my fondness for ALL-BRAN. It gives such a clean taste in the mouth, and I do not feel satisfied until I have had my ALL-BRAN."

"If the Kellogg Company should ever stop manufacturing ALL-BRAN, here is one who would be greatly disappointed."—Miss Amy Person, University Park, Iowa.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. How much safer than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Just eat two tablespoons daily for most types of constipation. For serious cases, try it three times daily. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Illinois Votes Are For Repeal

Overwhelming Majority For Repeal Shown By Vote
On Monday

INDIANA VOTERS AT POLLS TODAY

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, June 6.—By an overwhelming vote majority vote Illinois today became the ninth state to ratify repeal of national prohibition, thus fulfilling liberal hopes for an impressive psychological precedent in the agricultural middle west.

Topheavy majorities, which ran eleven to one for repeal in the Chicago area, were amassed for the 50 repeal delegates to the state convention which is to be held in Springfield, July 10. The delegates at that time will ratify the twenty-first amendment repealing the eighteenth, or prohibition amendment.

Repeal carried the entire state by an indicated ratio of four to one, with returns complete from 4,703 precincts out of 7,249 the vote stood 927,027 for repeal and 219,305 against it.

Indiana Voting
INDIANAPOLIS, June 6.—Liberal leaders were predicting victory by a three to one margin today as Indiana voted upon repeal of the eighteenth amendment and national prohibition.

Wet forces were heartened by the liberal trend shown by the rural communities in the Illinois referendum yesterday, dry organizations having claimed a preponderance of the farmer vote.

The tenth state to hold a referendum on repeal, Indiana will elect 329 delegates to meet here June 26 to formally pass on the twenty-first amendment abolishing the eighteenth.

Class Of Mahoning Will Enter Senior High In September

Will Be First Class In Four Years To Go From Here Direct To High

For the first time in four years Mahoning school is sending a class of students direct to the New Castle senior high school. In past years only eight grades were taught at Mahoning and the students were sent to Benjamin Franklin and George Washington junior high schools for their ninth grade work.

A year ago the eighth grade students, upon finishing their work, were kept at the local school and a ninth grade class was inaugurated. This was done mainly because the Franklin and Washington schools were crowded to capacity.

Members of the 9A class entering senior high school next September are:

Jennie Barto, Virginia Friggione, Mammie Friggione, Margaret Lombardo, Helen Nocera, Flossie Masone, Dolle Russo, Nick Casber, Wallace Chimra, Fred Ivonella, Augustus LaMarce and John McTaggart.

Home Mortgage Relief Bill Is In Conference

Administration's $2,000,000,000 Relief Bill Is Being Ironed Out

LEADERS CLAIM BILL WILL PASS

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 6.—The administration's $2,000,000,000 home mortgage relief bill was sent to conference today, with senate and house leaders predicting its final enactment before the week-end.

The senate liberalized several of the bill's provisions: raising to $25,000 the valuation of homes eligible for loans; providing for an unconditional three-year moratorium on principal payments, and setting a maximum limit of six per cent on the interest rate to be charged when direct cash advances are made to home owners.

The bill provides for a home owners' loan corporation to be formed by the Federal Home Loan bank board and authorizes a treasury subscription of $200,000,000 to the new agency's capital stock. The corporation can issue bonds up to $2,000,000. The bonds are to be tax exempt, drawing 4 per cent treasury guaranteed interest. They are to be exchanged for mortgages, up to 80 per cent of the values of the homes. The cash advances are limited to 50 per cent of value.

Pinchot Finishes With List Of Bills; 661 Get Signature

Accomplishments Of 1933
General Assembly Becomes Apparent

Turner Bill Is Vetoed And Denounced By Governor Pinchot

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, June 6.—Accomplishments of the 1933 general assembly became more definitely apparent as the vetoed Turner bill (house No. 22) joined the heap of 141 bills transformed into debris by Gov. Pinchot's veto pen.

The governor's signature was far more prominent on the assembly's unofficial summaries showed he signed 661 bills, 300 of which were appropriation measures.

The chief executive termed the Turner bill, which would have revised the state administrative code, "the fruit of political arrogance" and denounced the Republican organization for using the "mailed fist" to get it through the house.

Explains Veto.
He asserted its approval would have wrecked the administrative code and "the state government would be crippled." Among the evils he cited were provisions that "would cripple the department of labor and industry by preventing the investigation of industrial conditions until the legislature expressly authorizes such investigations."

Rep. Ellwood J. Turner, Delaware, father of the bill, viewed the governor's action as "effectually destroying for some time to come the hope of the great majority of Pennsylvanians that intelligent economies might, at last, be applied to state government."

Omnibus Bill Signed.
The McClure omnibus utility bill became law because "this very small loaf is better than no bread." The governor lauded two of its provisions.

sions. One makes it impossible for companies to discontinue service because of the failure of customers to make payments on the purchase or rental of appliances, and the other provides for the collection of reparations in one instead of separate proceedings for the individual ratepayers.

By approving the Parkinson road bill for $12,352,000, the governor fulfilled his desire "to take the farmer out of the mud" for two years. One million goes for the care of Philadelphia roads while the remainder must be used for the maintenance of second class township highways during the biennium.

Appropriations Denied.
Road appropriations for Pittsburgh, Scranton, third class cities, boroughs and first class townships were denied.

The Gelder bill establishing 800 miles of abandoned turnpikes as state highways was approved but the Williamson bill allocating $19,250,000 for maintenance of municipal roads during the next two years died under the veto pen.

Because he believed the Woodward bill was unconstitutional, the governor vetoed it. The measure would have prohibited candidates for public office, except judgeships, from seeking the endorsement of more than one political party.

The governor's veto pen frustrated what he termed an attempt "to raid" the motor license fund by making $5,000,000 of its money available to aid financially distressed school districts. For this reason he disapproved the Cordier bill.

Emergency Measure.
"Because it is 'an emergency measure' and 'absolutely necessary for the continuation of work relief,'" the chief executive approved the Rice bill. It reduces from $1 to 25 cents per week the premium employers must pay for compensation insurance on each person engaged in work relief.

The Ziesenheim bill abolishing the election of poor directors in Erie county and providing for their appointment by the court of quarter sessions was signed.

Controversy Over Decedent's Estate

Two Sets Of Heirs Claim To Be Entitled To War Insurance
Of E. L. McLaughlin

Controversy over the estate of the late Edward L. McLaughlin reached the courts Monday when a petition was presented by Shuby E. Triplet and Harold McLaughlin, in an appeal from the revocation of letters of administration in the McLaughlin estate.

The petition set forth that Edward L. McLaughlin, a member of Co. B, 7th Infantry, Third Division, American Expeditionary Force, died in France, October 18th, 1918, leaving as his sole heir, his father, John W. McLaughlin.

War risk insurance was paid to the father monthly until his death September 15th, 1931, at which time there was still unpaid, $4,344. This was claimed by Edward's brother, Harold McLaughlin, as sole surviving heir and letters were issued to Shuby E. Triplet and Harold McLaughlin.

Edna Golden, for herself and Ethel Mills, Helen McLaughlin, Viola and William McLaughlin, disputed the right of Harold to the money. It is set forth that John McLaughlin and Mrs. McLaughlin, the mother of Edward and Harold, had separated, but that they were never divorced. The claimants to the money are children of John McLaughlin by another woman, but the point is raised that there was no legal marriage.

In order that the claims of the contending parties may be investigated, Judge Hildebrand directed a citation on Edna Golden and the others to appear, when a hearing will be held.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The dirigible is an absolute necessity to American defense and the most practical type of aircraft for overseas service, Arthur Brisbane, noted editor and publisher on Monday told the joint congressional committee investigating the Akron disaster.

Railroad Deals Amaze Senators At Big Hearing

Pecora Shows How Van Sweringens Secured Railroad Without Much Effort

HOUSE OF MORGAN WAS INTRIGUED

By EDWIN C. HILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, June 6.—A plain, ordinary magician thinks he's pretty good when he takes a rabbit out of a hat. But the two Van Sweringens made a pass and took a railroad out of a hat.

That's how good they are. For they have not only the railroad but they also have the hat. The story of the acquisition of the Nickel Plate railroad by Otis B. and Mantis J. Van Sweringens is one of the gaudiest yarns that ever swirled down the canyon of Wall street and over the threshold of J. P. Morgan & Co.

It is the story being used today by Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the senate banking and currency committee, as the opening wedge into even more sensational revelations.

Out of Hat.
For Otis and Mantis so intrigued the House of Morgan that the promoters had no difficulty in getting the financial underwriting they required and went on, after the Nickel Plate stunt, to pluck more and more railroads out of a hat.

They wound up with a great railroad system, one of the four great systems of the east, and apparently, or so Pecora seems to think, they ran it up from virtually nothing. In other words, the testimony today goes to show, as far as it goes, that the two Van Sweringens really did not pay a dollar for control of the Nickel Plate.

It was one of the most notable instances of being able to eat your cake and have it too, that has come to light in many a year.

Without going into the many columns of figures and the arithmetical labyrinth that Pecora prodded Otis Van Sweringens through yesterday, it is sufficient to state that after the Van Sweringens, two plump little men who had been doing quite well in the public utilities game in Cleveland and adjacent territory, decided they wanted to own a railroad, they went out to take the Nickel Plate.

Then by a dazzling series of operations involving the stock of the Nickel Plate, a loan from a Cleveland bank, the New York Central road, J. P. Morgan & Co., and a securities holding company of their own they emerged with the common stock of the Nickel Plate—as owners, in short—after having paid for the road with the preferred stock.

Amazing Details.
That sounds odd but that's the way it was, stripped of all pretty language and fancy figuring. The two little Van Sweringens simply made passes and people fell over each other to hand them stock or cash. Even the Morgans, apparently, and the venerable and canny George F. Baker.

As Pecora said to this writer today: "I can't for the life of me find out that they ever paid a dollar of their own money for the Nickel Plate railroad. Their expenditure to become railroad kings is just exactly zero up to date. No, they want other people to put up the cash, and then by some of the fastest and smoothest sleight-of-hand Wall Street ever saw they came out a railroad to the good and everybody happy."

Probe Death Of Young Woman In Colorado Hills

Find Body Of Unidentified Young And Pretty Woman, Clothing Shops Hunted

(International News Service)
CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., June 6.—An unknown woman came to death at the hands of persons unknown, and the death was felonious.
With these words a coroner's jury summarized, as it stands today, the case of the beautiful, well-dressed young woman whose body was discovered partially buried in an abandoned prospector's hole in the mountainous region near Florissant, Colo. The body and the few pieces of clothing on it were carefully examined without finding any identification marks.

The woman's clothing was apparently all of the best quality. Officers attempted to find in Colorado a corset of a brand and Pueblo shops only in Denver and Pueblo shops only in Denver and Pueblo shops only in Denver.

Gardeners Must Fight Beetles

Poison Dust Or Spray Is Advocated By County Farm Agent McCulloch

LIBERAL USE WILL KILL OFF BEETLES

Mexican bean beetles are starting to make their appearance in large numbers in gardens of the county, and unless gardeners take precautions against them early, the crop will be a failure.
Many inquiries have been made of County Farm Agent, H. C. McCulloch, who advises the liberal use of either a poison dust or spray. This which the beetle makes its appearance and continued for a period of several weeks. By starting at once, the first appearance of the larva can be controlled and destroyed.
The larva or young of the bean beetle feeds on the under side of the leaf, making it necessary to apply the dust or liquid on the leaf. Either the dust or liquid can be used and both are efficacious if used according to directions, Mr. McCulloch says.
If the poison is to be dusted onto the plant, use one part of calcium arsenate to seven parts of hydrated lime, taking care to see that the dust reaches the under side of the leaf. A hand duster should be used to make sure that the leaf receives the dust.
If it is more desirable to use a spray, secure three-fourths of an ounce of calcium arsenate and one and one-half ounces of lime to three gallons of water. As in the case with the dust, the spray must be placed on the under side of the leaf.
Spray often. If the first group of larvae which hatches out is killed off, it will be much easier to control the succeeding groups. It is the larva which eats up the plant, not the adult.

BREACH ON VETERANS ECONOMY ACT WIDENS

Unable To Stem Revolt In House On Economy Act

Democratic Leaders Inform President Roosevelt Congress Is Determined

NEW TAX LEVY MAY BE RESULT

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Democratic leaders of the house, after a canvass of the membership, today informed President Roosevelt they cannot stem the tide of revolt against the drastic Veterans' Economy Act.

Confronted by the president's warning that $170,000,000 in new taxes must be levied if the senate amendment limiting the act is adopted, the house leaders indicated they would seek approval for a new tax levy.

Compromise Offer.

The administration repeated the compromise offer presented to the senate by Senator Byrnes (D) of South Carolina, but it fell on deaf ears. This plan would slice the savings under the act $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 by limiting the world war veterans with service connected cases to a 25 per cent cut.

As administration leaders sought to hold the house down to the senate proposal, insurgent Democrats gathered to consider a proposal to expand the senate plan.

A straight limit of a 25 per cent cut for any veteran—including pension, presumptive case allowances, compensation and disability allowances—was urged as a substitute for the senate amendment which limited service-connected world war cases and pensions of prior wars to a 25 per cent reduction.

The new proposal would affect 500,000 world war veterans receiving small allowances for illness having no connection with their war service.

Reckless Driver Landed In Jail

New Castle Man Among Those Whose Lives Were Endangered

PORTERSVILLE, Pa., June 6.—Found guilty of reckless driving and improper passing, by Justice of the Peace W. C. Lardin of Portersville, Joe Yoch, 1101 Florian avenue, Cleveland, will rest in the Butler county jail to think it over for the next 15 days.

According to state highway patrolmen, Yoch was proceeding south on Route 19 and at Paul Miller's station pushed a car driven by George P. Boudin, 1061 Adams street, New Castle, off the highway. Still traveling at a rapid rate of speed he rushed through Portersville crowding Corp. Leo Doolan into the ditch.

Doolan turned and gave chase but Yoch was out of sight when the motorcycle headed south. Doolan took a chance that the driver would travel 422 and rushed his machine at 75 miles an hour for four miles and finally succeeded in getting his man.

While he was writing him up for reckless driving, Patrolman C. W. Weaver appeared on the scene and stated the man was wanted on a charge of improper passing.

He was taken before Judge Lardin where he was fined $25 and costs in default of which he was sentenced to jail.

State Beer Law Will Be Tested In Mercer County

Petitions Have Been Filed Asking Revocations Of Seven
Licenses In Grove City

(Special to The News.)

MERCER, Pa., June 6.—The first test of the state beer law will take place in Mercer county as the belief expressed by attorneys today following filing of petitions by attorneys asking Judge J. A. McLaughry to revoke seven licenses granted in Grove City.

The pleadings set forth that in each case some of the signers of the petition for license were non-residents of the ward in which the business is being transacted. The law provides that signers must be electors of the ward, borough or township.

Attorneys claim they can prove non-residence in each case. As there are no precedents of law as yet as to the status of the signers and the decision in this court will make law in the adjudication of the matter, a date of hearing on the matter will be agreed upon by court and attorneys. It will be last of June or first of July.

County Treasurer George Lawrence reports the following grants of licenses made in Grove City attacked under this procedure: James Cicero, P. L. Nemo, Ernest Alois, distributors; Elks club, C. S. Covert, Christ Page, Mrs. Eva M. Phillips, retailers.

Sacred Concert At Welsh Church

Local Welsh

By WILLIAM A. JOHNS

Brython

A lovely and interesting sacred concert was that of Sunday evening June 4, at the Emmanuel Baptist church, corner of Jefferson and Reynolds streets, when the following program was rendered: scripture reading by Miss Ann Jones, a Welsh hymn sung by the audience in memory of John Williams, brother of Mrs. William Phillips, of East Reynolds street, who was buried two weeks ago in Wales, prayer by Mrs. William J. Lewis, solos by Mrs. R. T. Morris, Miss Ruth Hughes, Mrs. Wm. P. Vogan and Miss Ellen Jones, reading by Miss Vivian Jones, speeches by William Lloyd, superintendent of the Sabbath School, Brinley Hughes and Griffith Phillips. Miss Ann Jones was at the piano.

Llewellyn Thomas, of South Mercer street, is spending a few weeks with his son David, and his family at Pittsburgh. When there he will visit the office of the Druid paper and the home of the basso singer, Joseph Williams and Mrs. Williams former New Castle people.

News has come of the death of the famous singer, Isaac Edwards in Swansea, South Wales. Mr. Edwards spent some years in New Castle and while here he was united in marriage to the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gary, of South Mill street. He and his wife went back to Wales some years ago and made their home at Swansea.

The writer received a very kind letter this week from his former superintendent, David Johns, who has been the superintendent of the Forest tin plate works, Morriston, for very nearly sixty years. He is still on the job at the present time, 85 years old. He is the brother-in-law of Deacon James Taylor, Long avenue. He says things are improving in the tin plate trade over there.

Members of the Star of Wales lodge No. 60 True Iovites of America, will meet next Saturday evening at the lodge rooms in the Emmanuel Baptist church at 7:30 to receive the report of different committees.

Finds Program Of Commencement Here Half Century Ago

High school commencements of fifty years ago were just as full of sentiment and excitement as they are today, even though the number graduated was but a small part of the present day classes.

Among some papers in her home Miss Dell Davidson discovered a clipping of the New Castle News of May 12, 1916 which in turn was a reprint of the Daily City News of Friday, May 18, 1883, carrying the account of the graduation of the class of that year.

The program was a rather unique peace of work. Messrs Hunter and Mengle, a dry goods concern of that day had the program printed on pink satin paper run off as a courtesy paper and presented as a memento of the dry goods merchants.

Thirteen young men and women made up the graduating class and the exercises were held in Allen's Opera House, with Prof. Franklin's orchestra of Sharon furnishing the music.

Miss Alice Richardson was the Valedictorian of her class and the subject of her essay was "Life's Page." According to the account she was listened to with "breathless silence." Miss Mollie Liebenдорfer was the Latin Salutatorian and the

Schmeling-Baer Bout May Prove Financial "Flop"

Do Not Expect House To Gross More Than $250,000; Dempsey Looks Like Loser

Have Asked That More Seats Be Put In Yankee Stadium, Seating 77,000

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 6.—In the midst of that inevitable undercurrent of expectancy, always the prelude to a big heavyweight brawl, came the announcement today that the capacity of the Yankee Stadium is being increased to 77,000 for the Schmeling-Baer prize fight on Thursday night, there being no local ordinance against optimism. Stray casuals have started to straggle in from the outlands. The hotels are rapidly approaching a situation wherein the guests are beginning to outnumber the soundreels who make lasting impressions upon the house furnishings in the lobby. They are even beginning to outnumber the help.

Moreover, the advance sale is holding up well. It is still shy of $100,000 but can be expected to come in on the closing days as the fighters, now finished with any further obligation except that of waiting, arrive in town on Wednesday, accompanied by a customary bluster and excitement.

But the Schmeling-Baer fight is not going to need more seats than originally arranged for. It is all too likely that it will need less. It figures to play to about 50,000 people and a gross of some $250,000, and while there remains more than a lingering doubt about the winner, the loser is practically ordained.

He is Mr. John Dempsey, the promoter, who figures to finish up behind the back fence, unless the fight does $300,000 or better. It won't.

Dempsey Inspired.
Yet when the final testimony has been taken on this enterprise, it will be Mr. Dempsey who will be held to have contributed most toward its success. There are those who say that, as a promoter, Mr. Dempsey is just another ex-fighter. There are others who even question his competence. But no promoter was ever more inspired than this young man when he decided to dramatize his values by publicly boxing with the principals.

The day before he went in there with Schmeling and Swannano, this was no more than an average promotion, dubious at best. The day after, the boys were ago. While still in this weakened state, they began buying tickets. They haven't stopped yet and won't, up to the hour of the fight.

In fact, it will make a little money for some of those interested and a good deal for others. But Dempsey will have to take his in prestige. This is a very splendid thing but you can't eat it. I might even say that you can buy a lot of empty milk bottles with the $10,000 to $20,000 deficit the promotion may have to face.

Referee Awards Fight To Wilson
(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, June 6.—Tommy Paul's inability to deflect the left jab directed at his injured eye led to his downfall here last night in a scheduled 10-round bout with Jackie Wilson, gaunt Pittsburgh negro.

Referee Red Robinson stopped the fight in the eighth round and awarded a technical knockout to Wilson when the hard-hitting Buffalo featherweight's optic developed into a gory mess. Paul was in front at the half-way mark on the strength of a telling body attack but slowed up in the sixth when Wilson's persistent "pecking" began to close his eye.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

F. Almond, apprentice jockey, riding at Hagerstown, Md., yesterday died of a broken neck received when his mount, Just Cap, fell in the first race.

Tommy Paul entered the ring wearing a patch over his left eye at Pittsburgh last night and Jackie Wilson pecked at it so much the referee stopped the fight and awarded a technical knockout to Wilson in the eighth round. Paul had the best of the bout. Not many months ago Wilson fought Ross Fields here and Fields pecked at Wilson's ear so much that the referee stopped the bout and gave it to Fields.

Dick Squire, a Bedford, O., high school boy and Madam B. C., a thoroughbred, raced over Bainbridge race track yesterday. The boy started from the three quarter pole and won by 50 yards over the race horse which was stationed at the half mile pole. Square ran the quarter mile in .49 flat.

After disposing of Coralie Peale, Cynwyd, in love sets in her first round encounter. Mrs. De Lloyd Thompson, Washington, Pa., ran out a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Charlotte Darling of Philadelphia, in the women's southeastern Pennsylvania tennis tournament at Philadelphia.

Merle "Red" McIntosh, waxed enthusiastic today as he announced that the New Castle Cardinals, former well known baseball team, has been reorganized for the 1933 season. The Cardinals are open for games with all fast teams in the city and county.

Games are especially desired with any of the Lawrence County Twilight teams, or teams in Ellwood City, Pultaski, New Wilmington or Bessemer. The Cardinals in a few warm-up games have met and defeated Pultaski, split with New Bedford and trounced the Colonial A. C. The roster contains the names of such well known baseball stars as Paul Hoskins, Earl Bauman, New Campbell, Don Campbell, Canon, Chill, Gall, Andy Smith, Grannis, and McIntosh. The team is coached by Harry Shoaf, well known baseball manager and former Church league manager.

For games call Harry Shoaf at 3717-J after 6 o'clock.

Orrs To Play Mahoning A. A.

Orrs baseball team will play the Mahoning A. A. another league game Wednesday night at the E. & A. field. The Orrs take exceptions to the statement that the Mahoning A. A. team is undefeated, as the Orrs beat them this year 5 to 4.

Thursday night at the Lehigh field the Orrs team will play the Clifton Flats team at 6:30 o'clock. This should be a good game. The teams are about evenly matched.

Three Games In American Division
Castledale will meet Bessemer, Polish Nationals will oppose the Tigers and West Pittsburgh will tackle the Peerless in American division. Lawrence County league games today. The games will be played at Bessemer, Tigers field on the West Side and at West Pittsburgh.

Picks Schmeling To Defeat Baer

George Chip Says Schmeling Should Pack Fight To Baer

RECALLS INCIDENTS OF HIS OWN CAREER

George Chip, former middleweight champion of the world believes Max Schmeling will beat Max Baer, Thursday night when they clash in a bout scheduled to go 15 rounds at New York.

"Baer talks a good fight," said Chip in commenting on the coming scrap. "Schmeling isn't saying anything. In fact he's intent only on the fight and Baer's joshing won't bother him."

"I would have liked to have been in Schmeling's camp to show him how to fight a fellow like Baer. Those kind of fighters were the kind I liked to fight," said the former champion.

He said that in his scraps with the late Eddie McGorty and Tim O'Neil he always had to stand for a lot of pre-fight talk and joshing in the ring but added: "It never bothered me."

He said that Schmeling should carry the fight and not let Baer pack it to him. "Baer is a rather smart fellow and Schmeling shouldn't let Baer get an early start on him."

Takes Play From George
George told about his fight with Mike Gibbons at Youngstown. Mike wouldn't let Chip take the play away from him and in the ninth round nailed Chip on the jaw.

"The punch turned me half around. His brother Tom yelled for him to nail me again but Mike bided his time and the fight went the limit."

"After the fight Tom said to Mike: 'Why didn't you nail him when you turned him around in the ninth?' Mike replied: 'Yes and I bumped into the right he had cooked?'"

"Never mind. Tom" added Mike, "you're going to fight George at St. Paul in a few weeks. You will have the chance to nail him there." Tom didn't nail Chip.

Chip said last night that, in his opinion, Mike Gibbons was the smartest man who ever wore a glove. Couldn't figure Greb.

Asked if the late Harry Greb joshed him he said: "No, that fellow just kept fighting. You couldn't figure him at all."

After Mike Gibbons and Greb had fought in Pittsburgh Chip visited Mike's dressing room and Mike asked:

"Say Chip, how do you figure out this Greb, anyway?"

"That's an impossibility," replied Chip with a grin.

"Lefty" Grove Is Iron Man

Grove's Excellent Pitching Has Kept Athletics From Bottom Of League

LEADING PITCHER IN AMERICAN LOOP

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 6.—Through the many vicissitudes that have marked the play of the Philadelphia Athletics this season, the work of Lefty Grove stands forth like a shining light.

Forced to carry the pitching burden almost entirely as a result of the ineffectiveness of Rube Walberg and the indifferent attitude of the Big Moose Earnshaw, the long lean left hander has been doing the work of three men. Called upon to labor three or four times a week: Grove has accounted for eight of the team's victories and has saved half a dozen more games.

Iron Man Grove
Grove has been reserved for relief duty for the past few weeks but yesterday he started for the A's because no one else was available. He was pitted against General Alvin Crowder, Washington's mound ace. Each had won seven games.

Although nicknamed for eleven hits, Grove became the league's leading pitcher in games won by coasting to a seven to four triumph over the Senators, ending Philadelphia's four game losing streak. In hanging up his fifth straight victory, Grove exhibited perfect control, issuing no passes.

May Sell Earnshaw
Crowder was shelled off the hill in the fourth inning. Coleman started for the winners, driving in four runs. Grove helped win his own game by hitting a homer and a single.

Earnshaw, incidentally seems slated to go to the St. Louis Browns or to the Boston Red Sox, who are said to be willing to pay $100,000 for him. That $100,000 salary cut took a lot of pep out of big George and the recent heat wave also decreased his effectiveness. The climax was reached in New York last week when after falling asleep in the bullpen, he was suspended and advised, by Connie Mack to quit baseball.

Tigers Beat Indians
Chicago's White Sox increased their total of base hits for the last four games to 69 by lacing out 23 hits in shelling the St. Louis Browns, 14 to 7. Every Chicago player got at least two hits. The Sox took third place passing Cleveland. Whitlow Wyatt, obtained the other day from Detroit, went the route for Chicago.

Vic Frazier, who went to the Tigers in exchange for Wyatt started his first game for Detroit and was knocked out of the box. The Tigers beat Cleveland 8 to 7, however, thanks to the clugging of Charley Gehring, who drove in four runs with a homer, two doubles and a single.

Other teams were idle.

Between Innings

BEAT SOUTH SIDE
Moravians Sluggers won from the South Side nine to two. They out-hit the South side 11 to 2 and played better ball in the field. South Side scored their only runs in the second and ninth innings. Bright-shue pitched for the South Siders. He had 13 strikeouts. Koszela pitched for the Sluggers and had 15 strikeouts.

CUBS ORGANIZE
Penny's Cubs have organized and would like to book games. The team is composed of Hughes, Clements, Munson, J. Solomon, I. Solomon, Wilson, Bolazzo, Book, Gorbeth, Coulter, Kirkwood, Morella and Greynick. Write Cliff Hughes, 1503 1/2 Pennsylvania avenue, city, for games.

Edenburg A. C. wants to book games. C. Montano is manager. For games call him at 8051R4.

INDEPENDENTS WIN.
West Side Independents won from the Comets three to two on Lee avenue field yesterday. Davies out-pitched Bevan. Hannon poled two hits, one of which was a double, for the losers. Trot and D. Wheale also hit doubles.

NAME COUPLE MANAGER.
Catholic A. C. mullball team have elected T. Coppel, manager. So far this season they have won 13 of 19 games. They will play Canyon, St. Nicholas and St. Andrews this week.

ALLOWS ONE HIT.
Pearson All Stars defeated Shady-side Midgets 5 to 0 at Dean Park. Edmundson allowed only one hit.

RADIATOR VS. SHARKS.
National Radiator mullball team will play the Lakewood Sharks, a twilight game today on the Radiator field.

CARD TWO GAMES.
Elder A. C. will play a team as yet unnamed at 6:30 p. m. d. s. t.

Six Champions To Appear On Shelby Social Club Card

ROCCO-ATKINSON HAVE TOUGH FOES

Having pleased the fistic fans of this vicinity several weeks ago the directors of the Shelby Social club, Ellwood City have perfected arrangements for another biff and bang amateur show next Monday night. And, according to the looks of the calendar the night will be featured by several kayoes. It will be the last show until next fall.

Matchmaker Joe Lattiano has arranged a card that cannot help but appeal to the tastes of bout followers. Five Golden Glove champions of the district and an amateur champion of Ohio State will be among those throwing leather.

Will Meet Masur
The Ellwood battlers who made a creditable showing in the first bouts will once again be seen in action striving to keep their slates clean.

Two of the bouts arranged could be rated as features of the evening. George Rocco, outstanding Ellwood middleweight and brother of the famous Emmett, is scheduled to battle Steve Masur of New Kensington, Pa., 155 pound Golden Glove Champion. If Rocco dispatches this formidable foe in the same manner he did Louis Cereer of Pittsburgh, he will challenge the Pennsylvania State Amateur Champion. In the semi-final of the evening Ray Atkinson, of Ellwood, 144 pound Golden Glove Champion of Beaver Valley will strive to dispose of Chester Prosser of East Liverpool, O., who is the Ohio State Amateur Champion.

Adamo vs. Moro
Another bout that should prove of much interest to people of this vicinity will be the match between Tony Adamo, prominent 144 pounder of New Castle and Don Moro of the Rocco stable in Ellwood. Moro who is reputed to be a terrific puncher will have to keep a wary eye on this clever New Castle boy who beat Alex Lawn in the first show at Ellwood. Adamo, in his appearance here impressed the audience with his ring craft.

Legion Of Honor Golfers Compete

Hotly Contested Matches Are Played At Municipal Course Monday Evening

With the weather man giving them a break for the first time this season, the various teams of the Legion of Honor League, played some hotly contested matches on the Municipal course last evening.

Gomer Emery and H. Allen were medalists of the evening with a 48 apiece while Dr. J. L. Reed and C. Allen turned in 49's.

Jim Moorhead and his foursome were unable to get their wallop tuned up, the wet weather having rusted the delicate mechanism, and Jim had forgotten to oil the main spring. Several of the regulars were missing from the ranks last evening, but a newcomer was added to the ranks in the person of Ralph Montgomery, who gives promise of becoming a seasoned golfer before the summer is over.

After the matches had been played, lunch was enjoyed at the Municipal clubhouse. The captains of the various teams are making plans to have a full attendance of the team membership on next Monday evening.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

With very short approaches it is best to pitch right onto green.

ALEX MORRISON says:
When playing a shot from a few yards off the edge of the putting green a player very often gives himself the worst of it by trying to roll the ball through heavy grass.

Likewise, even a pitch shot that lands on the rather rough ground that is found in front of some greens very often kicks off line.

It's always best to use a club with enough loft to pitch the ball onto the smooth putting surface where it will run truly.

Gibson Gives Chagnon Spot Against Cubs

Meine Placed On Relief List And Chagnon Promoted To Starting Hurler

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 6.—Manager George Gibson's shake-up of the Pirates regular line-up today was extended to the pitching department.

Failure of Heine Meine to check the Cubs in the last game of Sunday's double-header at Chicago resulted in the veteran curve ball artist's relegation to the relief staff.

Leon Chagnon was promoted from relief pitcher to the former place of Meine. He is slated to start his first game of the season today against Chicago. Chagnon has pulled the Cubs out of many tight spots with his effective relief work in the past two weeks.

Meanwhile, Freddy Lindstrom benched in Manager Gibson's re-vamping of the batting order continues to ride the pines. The set-up that took the field in last Saturday's double bill remains intact for today's game.

Davis J. Walsh Picks Schmeling To Defeat Baer

Sports Editor Picks German
To Beat Maxie Baer In Bout On Thursday

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, June 6.—Realizing, of course, that this will have a lasting effect upon the happiness of a great nation and that only with a visible effort will many be able to master their emotion, I like Max Schmeling against Max Baer in their quarter-finals of the heavy-weight championship at the Yankee Stadium on Thursday night.

If they met in a back room with blinds drawn and doors barred, you'd have to like Baer. But the law says they have to play by the rules and Baer it seems, is strictly a son of nature and a child of instinct. I suppose this is only a cultured and refined way of saying that he doesn't figure. Anyhow, he has the proverbial dead man's hand to play, the only chance every chance and a half that a single punch or several will cut Schmeling down to pattern or demolish him utterly. But if the fight runs according to known and suspected form, Baer not only shouldn't win, he won't.

Merger

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 6.—Spectacular new gains in the communication shares, with Postal Telegraph preferred, spurring 6 points more on top of its recent upsurge, were outstanding in a further advance in the stock market today.

With the merger of Western Union and Postal looming, the stocks and bonds met further heavy demand and spurred to new highs.

The rest of the list was stimulated by new gains in business and the new rise in car loadings last week. Gains were more limited.

Speculative bonds scored further gains in the bond market. Cotton and silver were easy in commodities while grains and others tended to improve. The dollar was easier.

Trading in stocks continued at a furious pace which sent the ticker trailing as much as 7 minutes. Volume in the first hour was nearly 1,500,000 shares.

ARMY MAN SPEAKS
AT LIONS DINNERCivic Club, G. A. R. Vets Hear
Lieut. Col. Prince At Luncheon Today

A clear-cut message which brought to the city's Lions Club a ringing challenge to turn serious thought to Anti-American conditions both here and abroad, was delivered by Lieut. Col. Fred A. Prince, second in command of the U. S. Army's 99th division headquarters at Pittsburgh, when the club played host today to thirteen Civil War veterans of Lawrence county at its annual Memorial Day luncheon.

The dinner for the surviving G. A. R. veterans came a week late owing to the fact that the Memorial Day holiday came on the club's customary meeting day. No session was held last week.

Lieut. Col. Prince came to the city at the invitation of the club, addressing the honored war vets and Lions club men in a manner most fitting.

Commander D. M. Clark of the Lawrence County G. A. R. post, introducing his comrades, thanked the club for its appreciated invitation.

Those who attended with him were John A. Rogers, R. H. Wilson, Edward Welty, John B. Caldwell, W. G. Sharp, John Patterson, I. H. Cooper, A. R. Kerr, Matthew Alexander, James Hasson, Philip Wagner and E. L. Ayres.

Among the other guests were Prof. George A. Dickson, former school head here, the guest of Principal B. K. Thacker and J. H. Davis, Oil City and L. W. Olson, Edinburg.

Reduce Millage
In Wayne Twp.School Board Cuts Millage For Taxes Down To 20
For Year

ELLWOOD CITY, June 6.—After careful re-consideration of their adopted budget the members of the Wayne township school board decided to lower the tax millage for the coming year to 20 mills with a $5 per capita tax on all voters of the township.

At the last regular meeting the board had decided on a 25 mill rate which was a reduction of 5 mills from the 30 mill assessment of last year. This makes a total reduction of 10 mills which the members agreed was possible since a number of major expenses had been reduced or dropped from the budget entirely.

In accordance with a request from the tax justice league no action will be taken on the election of teachers until the July meeting but when the contracts were cancelled several months ago the majority of the teachers were notified they would be re-elected at a lower rate.

The tax collector, William Walker, reported that taxes to the amount of $7000 had been filed this year. This makes a total of approximately $16,000 of tax liens which have been filed during the past four years. To date about 60 per cent of the taxes for the present year have been collected.

Clerk Of Courts To Settle Excess Fees

Mercer Official Claims He Only
Charged For Marriage
Book

MERCER, Pa., June 6.—Clerk of Courts of Mercer County Marvin Loutzenheiser was fined $1 and ordered to pay to the county treasurer $1,077.35 by Judge J. A. McLaughry, Monday.

Loutzenheiser, held for extortion, pleaded nolle contendere to three charges and not guilty to another. He was scheduled for trial at the session starting June 12. He was arrested several months ago charged with extortion. It was claimed by the complainants that he had charged $4 for marriage licenses on which the fee was $2.50. Loutzenheiser's defense to these charges was that the bride couples had bought, with the license, a souvenir marriage book, which, he said, is customarily sold at all marriage license bureaus in Western Pennsylvania.

Free Speech Is Threatened By Air Control

American Press Remains
Only Organ Of Free Speech

BROADCASTING IS MANIPULATED

(International News Service)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 6.—The right of free speech is threatened by present allotments of radio broadcasting channels, E. H. Harris, Richmond, Ind., publisher and chairman of the radio committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, declared in an address before the annual convention of the National Editorial association Monday.

"A monopoly has been created in the case of each cleared channel which will abridge the rights and privileges of the citizens of the United States," Harris said. "When the federal government grants a monopoly to private capital invested in radio broadcasting it automatically shuts out free speech. Because all that the broadcasting companies need to do to prevent the broadcasting of a speech is to say that the time has been sold or allotted and that there will be no opportunity for the presentation of the speech through the use of that particular channel."

Newspaper First.

Granted that the radio has the power to hamper freedom of expression through its ability to select by shut out free speech, the American press remains the only medium which functions in the interests of free speech and for the protection of the basic rights of the people, the speaker added.

Harris outlined the results of the study by his committee of the relationship between newspapers and the radio. He said he was not recommending government ownership or government control of the radio, "because that is a decision which should be left to the opinion of the individual publisher or editor."

GIRLS ARE WARNED
AGAINST HITCH-HIKING

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 6.—Girls who accept rides from strange men should expect to regret it, was the opinion offered by Magistrate Louis Brodsky, in New Court recently in dismissing a charge of afforably conduct against an oculist, Adele Chailin an "entertainer" said the lift wasn't "friendly."

ROAMING With Richards

There never was a street car ride much more pleasant on a warm summer evening than the old line that ran out Hamilton street to Cascade park by way of Albion stop. Before the days when autos were common, that was the one way to cool off on a summer evening.

Down Mill street and up Long to Hamilton, on out to the city line and then out through the country. Out past the greenhouses, and through Dead Man's cut and past the ball park. And then the entrance into the park, where there were lily pads big enough to support a couple of frogs and the nasturtiums climbed over everything.

The street car rails have been taken up on that line, but they are making an automobile road of it now and yesterday we took a ride out over the old right of way into Cascade park. And what a change in the few years the rails have been out.

Dame Nature has been endeavoring to reclaim the ground she lost when the car line was built and in doing so has put an avenue of trees all along the way. Sycamores and elms and maples, young saplings that have ideas of growing into leafy bowers if they are left alone and from the city line almost to the park you drive between to rows of trees that make a nice view from ever it was in the old days.

It isn't going to take much work to make this road a good one. There always was a good road bed there, heavy clay and gravel, and the grade was established over a quarter of a century ago. All that needs to be done is to clear the brush, fill in some depressions and put in a small culvert out beyond Sycamore street.

Dead Man's cut is still a grim looking one although not so formidable as it was when they told a lot of ten year old youngsters some of the stories of how two men lost their lives when the cut was made. There appears to be nearly enough gravel in the cut to fill whatever depressions need it.

And the lily pond at the entrance to the park is still there, lovely as ever with a few touches here and there. It has been hidden for some years by an amusement gadget which has been taken out and now a circular driveway is being built around it.

The driveway will go on into the park, circle up around through it and come out on East Washington street. A lot of shacks that hid part of the natural beauty of the park are being torn out and Cascade park is being restored to what it always was intended to be, a spot where people could enjoy nature and breathe some air that has filtered through pine and hemlock.

It won't be long until the pleasant ride out through Hamilton street through the flats along the Big Run will be restored, until Cascade park is again a recreation spot and not a honky tonk set down in a sylvan dell, and when these things are done, as they will be soon, you owe it to yourself to enjoy your park.

Seems as though bullfrog stories had the call yesterday. Heard three of them, any one of which you can believe, if you want to. One of them concerns Louis Haug's fish pond in the Sound. It said the frog west of the Alleghenies had congregated in Haug's pond and now he is dickering to sell some of the bellows to a horn company.

A couple of friends coming in from the Paper Mill dam insist that there are frogs along the Neshannock as large as wire haired terriers with voices that would shame a bull fiddle.

And from Lakewood comes the story of a huge frog that was caught out there and tossed in the door of one of the cottages to the discomfiture of the ladies. Just good clean fun, and the ladies nearly tore out the furniture getting out of the road.

MOTHER IS KILLED
SAVING CHILDREN

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., June 6.—Dashing across the Pennsylvania railroad tracks yesterday to save two of her children, Mrs. Stella Zabatakis, 39, was struck and killed by the engine of a freight.

The train crew apparently failed to see the accident, for the train did not stop.

The tragedy occurred at the Patterson crossing on the outskirts of Burgettstown, less than a block from the Zabatakis home. Mrs. Zabatakis was mother of five children.

Campers Warned To Use Caution

Water From Wells Long Unused May Be Contaminated, Harper
States

ADVISES METHOD OF TREATING WATER

Persons who are returning to their summer cottages and favorite camping spots are urged to use the utmost precaution with the drinking water from wells and springs.

Unless they know the water is pure by test, all pumps both in driven and dug wells, should be thoroughly pumped out before the water is used, Dr. H. C. Harper, county medical director advises. It would be well also to treat the inside of the wells with chlorinated lime, dissolving the solution in water and placing it inside the well.

Dr. Harper states that it is well to bear in mind the fact that water which is often the clearest and purest looking, is often the most dangerous, as it might be highly contaminated.

Many pumps, wells and springs, which have been dry are now filled up, and water has poured into them from ground which has been well fertilized for years. It is very easy for water from this source to become infected and dangerous.

People who are going on automobile tours, traveling about over the country, are urged to be exceedingly careful about drinking water along the roadside, and to use only water which bears an approval sign of the State Department of Health.

Mayor McCloskey In Trouble Again

Johnstown's Fighting Mayor
And Poor Relief Head
In Scuffle

(International News Service)
JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 5.—Charges of assault and battery and inciting to riot were lodged today against Eddie McCloskey, Johnstown's red-headed fighting mayor.

The charges were filed by Leon P. Bennett, president of the Cambria county poor board and director of the emergency relief committee, following a near riot at the poor board's office.

Bennett alleged McCloskey led about 150 destitute persons to the relief board offices in protest against relief distribution and that the former pugilist-turned-mayor attacked him when he sought to pacify the demonstrators.

McCloskey's office workers said they expected him to return from Harrisburg sometime today. It was said he left for the capital after the trouble.
